Since the early 1900s, the American Nurses Association has presented awards to prominent registered nurses to recognize their outstanding contributions to the nursing profession and the field of health care.¹

The awards program was established to pay special tribute to those individuals who, through distinguished service to the nursing profession:

- work for the improvement of health standards and the availability of health care services to all people;
- foster high standards of nursing; and/or
- stimulate and promote the professional development of registered nurses and advance their economic and general welfare.

A primary goal of the awards program is to inform members of the nursing profession, other health professionals, government officials, and the public of the outstanding accomplishments and significant achievements of individual registered nurses in the delivery of health care. In addition, the awards program assists the public in gaining a better understanding of the role of nursing and its significant contribution to the delivery of health care.

The ANA Board of Directors is ultimately responsible for approving the selection of recipients for all national awards. The board-appointed Committee on Honorary Awards and its nine subcommittees are charged to review all nominations for specific awards and make recommendations to the board.

Individuals selected to receive an award are honored each biennium during a ceremony held in conjunction with ANA’s House of Delegates. Fourteen national awards will be presented in 2010:

- ANA Hall of Fame Award, to recognize the lifelong commitment of individual nurses to the field of nursing and their impact on the health and/or social history of the United States;

- Barbara Thoman Curtis Award, for significant contributions to nursing practice and health policy through political and legislative activity;

- Distinguished Membership Award, for outstanding leadership and participation in the American Nurses Association;

¹Provisions have also been made to honor, on special occasions, individuals who are not members of the nursing profession but have made significant contributions to health and/or nursing care.
• Hildegard Peplau Award, to honor the field of psychiatric nursing;

• Honorary Human Rights Award, for outstanding commitment to human rights and exemplifying the essence of nursing's philosophy about humanity;

Barbara Thoman Curtis has educated nurses on the political and legislative processes and nursing's role in the formation of health care policy for several decades and has earned the reputation of being a political activist for nursing. She continues to be called on by CMAs and other nursing organizations to provide her expertise and political insight.

Throughout her nursing career, Barbara Thoman Curtis has been active in various political campaigns serving in a variety of roles (i.e., consultant, campaign manager, fund raiser, scheduler, and volunteer). On behalf of the nominee, the submitter of the nomination shall attach to a completed awards nomination form a maximum of three supporting letters from the nominee’s patients, peers, medical staff, co-workers or the community.

8 In December 1999, the ANA Board of Directors approved the submission of EITHER a maximum of five letters of support OR a maximum of three letters of support and a maximum of two print validations of a nominee’s contributions and achievements, such as newspaper clippings and articles in professional journals, for each nominee for ANA national awards. For the Staff Nurse Advocacy Award, a maximum of five documents as described above must include a maximum of three supporting letters from the nominee’s patients, peers, medical staff, co-workers, or the community.
1. In 1994, the ANA Board of Directors adopted a policy concerning confidentiality of national awards committees.

Due to the sensitive nature of the selection process for national awards, members who serve on the Committee on Honorary Awards and the individual national award subcommittees shall maintain confidentiality throughout the process. Final approval and official notification of award winners will be made by the ANA Board of Directors.

2. Judging committees shall consider only the complete nominee packets received on time by the ANA Committee on Honorary Awards. A complete nominee packet consists of the following: a completed and signed 2010 nomination form, a nominee’s current curriculum vitae, the required number of letters of support and print validations, if applicable, and a completed Checklist for Individual Nominee Packet.

Entries must be typed on the appropriate nomination form. Complete nominee packets must be mailed to the correct address for receipt by September 18, 2009. Incomplete nominee packets or those received after the deadline will not be considered.

3. Judging committees shall consider all complete nominee packets received on time and shall present a report through the Committee on Honorary Awards with their recommendations to the Board of Directors of the American Nurses Association. The ANA board shall determine all recipients.

4. Recipients approved by the ANA Board of Directors will be invited to attend the ANA House of Delegates for the presentation of awards. If, because of extenuating circumstances, a recipient cannot be present, the presentation will be made in absentia.

5. Acceptance of other awards conferred by ANA shall not disqualify an individual for consideration.

6. Members of ANA Committee on Honorary Awards and subcommittees, the ANA Board of Directors, and the ANA staff are not eligible to receive national awards during the period in which these capacities are served, nor may they submit letters of support for nominations.
